EMEAC 2013

21st to 27th April

What EUROAVIA is

The European Association of Aerospace Students was founded in 1959 and is a platform for academic and inter-cultural exchange. Currently, it is represented in 37 cities in 18 countries with more than 1600 members. One of our main aims is to strengthen the connection between industry and students by arranging excursions, workshops and competitions.

What the EMEAC is

The EMEAC is one of two annual international EUROAVIA congresses. 50 representatives of all European affiliated societies meet in the five-day-long congress. Its aim is to elect a new International Board and to discuss future EUROAVIA policy. On one of these five days, our sponsors will get the chance to present their company.

EUROAVIA Bremen

Having joined the international community in November 2004, EUROAVIA Bremen currently consists of 60 members. The EMEAC 2013 will be the first international congress being hosted in Bremen.

Your benefit from supporting the project

Highly motivated and qualified employees looking for new horizons and bringing along important soft skills are essential for every company. These future specialists are not only well trained in project management and have remarkable multi-cultural competences, but also organized in a network consisting of 1600 EUROAVIAns. At the EMEAC 2013 you have the opportunity to present your company to this next generation of European engineers.
